Let's close this case against Microsoft and get on with business. As for the fine being in the form computers with microsoft o/s in them, make it cash so the schools can choose which computer and systems they prefer and are most compatible within their respective schools. Also, I think the states should drop their suits. My concern is that the states have gotten a taste from the tobacco settlements and are now looking for other ways to collect money. The fact is the lawyer friends of the politicians are probably the ones who are making out the most!!! Bob Hanson
